Administrative/Biographical History

Archibald Arthur Montague Lumsdaine was born in India in 1896. He served as an officer in the First World War, being commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant in the East Yorkshire Regiment and subsequently promoted to Lieutenant in the Lincolnshire Regiment. He worked in Australia in the 1930s, and during the Second World War he was granted a commission as captain in the Australian Army Reserve of Officers.

In 1955, Lumsdaine began working as a civilian at Great Castle House, Monmouth, the Headquarters of the Royal Monmouthshire Royal Engineers (Militia). Here he was a storekeeper in the clothing section of the Regimental stores, remaining in this post for a number of years. After his retirement, he continued an unofficial association with the Regiment and Great Castle House.

Lumsdaine was very interested in military history, and carried out a great deal of research, considering himself the historian of the Regiment. He was probably instrumental in saving some records from destruction, but he also removed some items from the Regimental records, and gave them – without permission and without the knowledge of the Regiment – to a number of different repositories. He corresponded widely with former members of the Regiment and with former members of the German armed forces as well as with a number of museums and archive repositories, gathering a considerable amount of information, especially about the First World War. He also carried out extensive research in the original records which he found in Great Castle House, although in so doing he usually disturbed the original order of the records, and frequently re-arranged them alongside his own notes. His research was of variable quality, and none resulted in any publications.

Lumsdaine died in 1980, in Penyfai Hospital, Abergavenny.

Archival History

Some of the research papers seem to have been kept with the Regimental Archive in Great Castle House. Some were given to the Gwent Record Office, and subsequently transferred to the museum. Others were given to the Royal Engineers Museum and Library at Chatham, and were also later returned to the museum.

Immediate source of acquisition or transfer:

The Regiment, 1978 .

Gwent Record Office, 2009

Royal Engineers Museum and Library, 2009

Scope and Content:

Research notes and correspondence concerning details of actions in the First World war; various items of research in the history of the RMonRE(M); and research notes on the history of the 43rd Regiment of Foot (Monmouthshire Light Infantry)

Appraisal, destruction and scheduling Information:

Research notes and correspondence judged to be of no value have been destroyed.

Accruals:

None expected

System of arrangement:

The research notes are arranged by subject: research into the First World War; general research on the Royal Monmouthshire Royal Engineers; research on the 43rd Regiment of Foot (Monmouthshire Light Infantry)

Conditions governing access:

Open

Conditions governing reproduction:

Documents may usually be copied, but permission should first be obtained from the museum trustees or honorary curator.
